

United Kingdom

Kieli is a British company specializing in digital content management, including data classification, categorization, translation, media subtitling, voice talents recording (voice over) and software localization. Kieli is also covering annotation for machine learning enhancement. We have a database of recorded audio datasets available to our clients. Kieli enables private companies as well as public organizations spread thier message with speed, sensitivity and local authenticity, maximise the value of their Data Assets and connect their database to other languages. Whether you are coming from the public or private sector, Kieli can offer you the help you need, producing for you the digital content that will represent your brand as efficiently and naturally as it deserves to be. We do this by combining proven industry experience with cutting edge tools & techniques.

Contact Me
Email Friend